

30 Badly Injured When Rioters Rage Wildly In Harlem Tuesday Night

Negroes, Allegedly Incited by Organized Agitators, Go Berserk Over False Reports on Killing of Boy for Pilfering.

HUNDREDS OF POLICE

White Man and 2 Negroes Reported in Critical Condition From Wounds Received in Fracas.

New York, March 20 (AP).—After a night of riot and hoodlum marauding, hundreds of policemen brought a semblance of order today to Harlem, the vast negro district.

Two negro rioters were in a critical condition in Harlem Hospital. One, Charles Alston, jumped from the roof of a six-story tenement in the last fore, shortly before dawn. Alston and three other negroes were shot by a policeman from the roof. When surrounded, Alston jumped.

Another negro, one of the guerrilla bands that raged through the district after the false report that a negro youth was beaten to death by white store clerks, was also in a critical condition from gunshot wounds.

Ten persons were shot in the outbreak. White hoodlums battled frequently with negro marauders. More than 100 whites and negroes, many of them radical agitators who seized the opportunity for propaganda purposes, were in the streets, waiting assignment in Harlem and Washington Heights courts during the day. The courts were under heavy guard.

At least thirty persons were injured in the rioting. It spread sporadically over Harlem after excited throngs of negroes spread the word that the youth was killed in pilfering a pocket knife.

Boy Turned Loose
In reality, the store manager had turned the boy loose although he had beaten the two floorwalkers who caught him.

Not until 2 a. m. today—ten hours after the trouble began—could the police find the boy to prove he was alive. Then he set alone in a police station, indifferent to the hysteria which raged about him.

Harlem was a bedlam with shots, screaming, sirens of police cars, clanging fire apparatus called out by numerous false alarms and the clamor of the rioters.

Roving Assaults
Roving bands of negroes assaulted white persons or smashed windows and fled at the approach of policemen. Officers and detectives repeatedly fired into the air to disperse rioters and, on occasion, shot to bring down their man.

Two stores were set on fire. In each case the damage was confined to the premises.

"Let it burn," spectators shouted to firemen.

Lyman Quarterman, 34-year-old negro, was in Harlem Hospital in a critical condition from a gunshot wound in his abdomen. An unidentified white man, his skull fractured, was reported dying in the same hospital.

Several others were seriously hurt. Officials at the Harlem Hospital estimated they alone treated about 70 victims.

Admits Taking Knife
Lino Rivera, 16, was the youth about whom the story raged. He freely admitted that he had taken the knife and had bitten the hands of the floorwalkers. One of them slapped his face and he was taken into a rear room. A clerk faints.

A woman rushed from the store (S. H. Kress and Co.) and said the boy was being killed. The report spread through Harlem and soon a crowd of 1,000 had gathered, convinced that the boy was dead, and that a negro who had come to his rescue was taken to jail with a broken arm.

Jackson Smith, the manager, meanwhile had taken Rivera's name and address—getting the address wrong—and let the boy out the rear door.

Police Squads Busy
Police squads broke up the crowd after it had filled through the block-deep store, doing considerable damage, but shortly before closing time two white and two negro pickets appeared, with placards reading "Kress brutality beats police crowd."

That was the spark which started the evening disorders.

As the crowd quickly reformed, this time to take the former sign, one of the white men climbed on a hastily made platform and began a harangue. He was arrested, as were his companions, on a charge of inciting to riot. The speaker was booked as Daniel Miller, Jr., of the Bronx.

Police Injured Men
When a hearse appeared behind the store—purely by coincidence—there was no holding the crowd.

Windows in virtually every store on 124th and 125th streets between Seventh and Eighth avenues were smashed and from there the disorders spread. Police, heavily armed but unwilling to fire, were targets for bricks and stones.

Police radio and telephone-type writer systems sent squad car officers and reserves rushing into the district by the dozen, then the word and the hundred.

They were too much for the

A notice posted in the uptown post office solicits proposals, up to March 24, for quarters for the Kingston uptown post office station. Bids are to be sent to Inspector Godechalk at White Plains and are to be for five or ten years' lease from August 23, 1935. About 900 square feet of floor space are required, the location must be reasonably central, with good daylight and with accessible rear or side entrance for mail. Bill to Exempt from Taxation Aqueducts, Reservoirs and Dams

Assemblyman Conway Will Fight New Bill Introduced in Senate. Declaring It An Unjust and Unfair Bill Designed to Work Grave Injustice on Ulster County. By HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr. (Freeman Staff Correspondent)

Albany, March 20 (Special).—Late yesterday afternoon a bill was introduced in the Senate by Samuel Mandelbaum, New York Democrat, to exempt municipally owned aqueducts, reservoirs, and dams, and further embracing any other structures that might have to do with the water system, exclusive of the land itself.

Senator Mandelbaum did not comment on his measure, other than to say that he was introducing it for the City of New York, and at the request of some one, whose name was not disclosed at that time. He mentioned a sum of a million and half dollars that would be saved New York city taxpayers with such an exemption law, and that this annual saving would mean a good deal to the metropolitan area.

It will be remembered that early in the session in the Assembly by John P. Hayes, Albany Democrat, who later killed his own bill because, according to a formal statement made by him, it had the appearance of a political measure and that a former agreement of having a Republican in the Senate stand sponsor of a companion bill had not been met, so that rather than embarrass Democratic assemblymen who would not want to favor such legislation, Mr. Hayes dropped it altogether. A public hearing was held on his bill when it was under fire, and although a number of proponents appeared to defend his actions, there were more persons opposed to it because of the fact that such exemptions on aqueducts alone would cut too deep a hole in localities who operated with a budget that was in part supplied by tax moneys from revenue derived from levies on aqueducts running through the home territory.

It was learned from other sources, however, that Mr. Hayes' measure was doomed to defeat by a powerful Republican group, comprised of representatives chiefly from Westchester county, where Croton Dam, one of the two main water supplies to New York city, is located, and that Mr. Hayes backed down on his proposal in as gracious a manner as possible.

This new bill, to exempt not only aqueducts but all other physical structures of such dams and reservoirs, which is in the heart of the Catskills, if passed, will save New York city taxpayers a goodly amount each year, but the slice it makes in small county budgets is no mean portion.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Ulster county representative, gave this following statement to The Freeman upon learning of the action taken by Senator Mandelbaum.

"For many years," Mr. Conway remarked, "the Republican party in Ulster county and its candidate for the legislature have warned the people that the city of New York would seek exemption of taxation of its reservoirs. They have done this immediately upon the Democratic party winning control of the legislature. "We are now confronted with the realization of the hard fact underlying that warning. The city of New York and the sponsor of the measure have no compunction about the money being taken from the taxpayers for their own advantage. The property which they condemned and took away from the residents of Ulster county was the heart of this county. "Going back to the Hayes measure, which I regarded as a preliminary step paving the way for this bill, I can understand that this measure was defeated not because of the Republican party but because of the other reasons which killed the bill. "I am diametrically opposed to the new measure, and will fight it every inch of the way as an unjust and unfair bill designed to work a

A far from cheerful picture was painted at the headquarters of the local emergency relief bureau on Broadway today when in reply to inquiries it was stated that the case load instead of decreasing as expected was increasing, and that more families were being cared for this month than at any other time. There is a decided increase in the number of relief cases over February which set a high mark in relief work here when it was estimated that fully 6,000 people were being taken care of by the city, averaging four people to a family. Figures for this month were not available.

The local ERB had confidently expected that with the approach of spring that the number of relief cases in Kingston would show a decided decrease, but indications now are that this month's figures when compiled will show a decided increase over February and the other winter months.

480 Men Given Work

This month the ERB is furnishing work to 480 men, and the other relief cases are being given home relief. There are a number of work relief projects under way in the city at the present time, and undoubtedly more men could be placed at work if it was not for the federal ruling that relief bureaus spend more money for home relief.

Jobs Now in Progress

One of the big jobs being carried on is the erection of the city incinerator on Wilbur avenue. It is about 60 per cent completed.

Work on the erection of the city laboratory adjoining the Kingston Hospital is being delayed by the non-arrival of the steel beams to be used in the concrete floors. As soon as the beams are received they will be placed and the work of pouring the concrete floor started. As soon as the floor is set the work of erecting the brick walls will be taken up. The concrete foundation has been poured.

Work on the East Chester street sewer is progressing as well as the laying of the 6-inch water main to replace the old 4-inch water main and it is expected that both jobs will be completed in about two weeks.

Sewer Work in City

The construction of the Ten Broeck avenue sewer is about 90 per cent completed, and work is also progressing on Henry street, where a new sewer is being laid. As soon as the sewer work is completed the work of rebuilding the streets will be started.

On Hudson street a new sewer has been laid and water main in that street. Work was started at the intersection of Hudson and Abel street, and the main has been laid nearly to Spring street. As soon as it is laid a new street will be built.

Rebuilding Streets

Within the next ten days, weather conditions permitting, the ERB is planning to resume the building of new streets in Hunter street and Mountain View avenue. Work was started last fall, but it was held up by the severe cold weather.

Work is also progressing on the laying of a new water main in Mary's avenue and on West Chester street.

EXTREMELY CRITICAL

Condition of Louis M. Howe Shows Severe Setback

Washington, March 20 (AP).—The condition of Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, was reported "extremely critical" at 11 a. m. today.

A White House bulletin said: "The condition of Secretary Howe is extremely critical. His strength is steadily failing."

Mrs. Roosevelt cancelled all engagements to remain at the bedside in the White House of the 64-year-old intimate friend of the family.

Mrs. Howe also was in attendance and it was understood members of the family had been summoned.

President Roosevelt maintained contact from his desk in the executive office.

Board of Trade For the Village of Phoenicia, NRA Takes Trade From Plan of Business Men

Believe That Such an Organization Could Do Much to Benefit Village, Which Depends Upon Summer Business.

PLAN ATTRACTIONS

To Make Locality More Attractive and Better Business Conditions in Upper Esopus Valley.

A preliminary meeting was held Tuesday evening by about 40 of the business men of Phoenicia village for the purpose of organizing a Board of Trade. The meeting was held in Firemen's Hall and was presided over by William Weyman. In explaining the purpose of the meeting it was stated that such an organization could do much to benefit the people of the village, which depends largely upon summer people for its business. With a village wide organization backed by the representative business men of the village it was explained that much could be accomplished toward making Phoenicia a better town for summer folks to visit.

During the meeting several people addressed the assemblage and much enthusiasm was shown. Since the meeting was preliminary to the formation of a permanent organization no officers were elected and an adjournment was taken until next Tuesday evening at the same place. At that time election of officers will be taken up and the formation of a permanent organization will be discussed.

Among the matters which were discussed was a general plan to make the village a more attractive place for summer boarders. The proposition of constructing a swimming pool and the laying out of additional trails throughout the picturesque mountain section was discussed and cooperation between the people of the village and the Fish and Game Association and the Conservation Department was talked over. At one time Phoenicia was considered the ideal spot for trout fishing. Of late the injection of the Schoharie waters into the Esopus has caused great damage to the fisherman trade, the locality has been made less popular and one of the things which the new organization hopes to accomplish is to bring back better fishing and again place Phoenicia on the map as a fisherman's haven.

Among those who addressed the meeting were Mr. Weyman, Herbert Segelken, John Lurie, James Shurtz, Carol Simpson, Ray Smith and Mr. Cramer, who represents the Conservation Department of the U. S. C. Camp at Boiceville. Mr. Cramer spoke of the many things which were being done in the locality by the Conservation Department to improve the natural resources of the locality. He told of numerous small dams which are being erected to improve the streams and thus improve fishing conditions.

During the informal discussion many matters were mentioned which could be undertaken by a Board of Trade to make the locality more attractive to summer vacationists and by bringing in more summer people improve business conditions throughout the upper Esopus valley.

MYRON REDELL ELECTED MAYOR OF SAUKERTIES

Myron Redell was re-elected mayor of the village of Saukerties at the election held Tuesday. He was unopposed. For the office of trustees George L. Kerbert, Orville Snyder and Rutgers J. Hurry were elected for the two year term and F. S. Tongue was elected for a term of one year to fill a vacancy. There were approximately 500 votes cast.

Two propositions were submitted for a vote. One to purchase a new fire truck was carried and the second proposition to raise $1,500 for playground equipment was lost by 14 votes.

Clarence Darrow Says NRA Takes Trade From Little Man, Gives to Big

Big Business Has all the Advantage, He Says, and NRA Has Only Served to Increase That Position.

CHAMBER FILLED

Senators and Spectators Listen Intently to Chairman of Review Board at Session.

Washington, March 20 (AP).—Clarence Darrow told Senate investigators today that NRA was "taking business away from the little fellow and giving it to the big ones."

The veteran attorney, appearing before the Senate finance committee, testified in a quiet conversational voice that the recovery administration was increasing the advantage of big business.

"Big business has all the advantage," he said, "and NRA only has increased that advantage."

Darrow's shaky voice rose for the first time when he warned that "there will be nothing but masters and slaves before we get much further along." Near him in the hearing room crowded to overflowing sat Donald R. Richberg, recovery coordinator.

Talking of the concentration of wealth, Darrow said there was "no question but that the little man has suffered since the inauguration of NRA."

Senators and spectators listened intently to the 77-year-old lawyer's views based on his experience as chairman of the NRA review board. He began by telling of his appointment by President Roosevelt to the review board after criticism of NRA by Senators Nye (R-ND), Borah (R-IDaho) and others. As committee members leaned forward to hear, Darrow talked in a low voice and slowly, with a little hesitancy as though he did not know quite how to begin.

Long before the hearing was scheduled to start, the committee chamber was filled and overflowing with spectators attracted by the promise of an attack on NRA by Darrow. The witness was late arriving and members of the committee were already in their seats when he pushed through the door.

Darrow was accompanied by Lowell Mason, secretary of the review board. Seated around him as he testified were NRA officials, while Donald R. Richberg, director of the National Emergency Council, went to the ante-room to escort him to his seat.

Most of the spectators were women. Some spectators who were left outside were so insistent upon getting in that one of the Capitol policemen had to get his stick. Holding his spectacle case in one hand, Darrow told how he organized the review board completely separate from the NRA setup, to avoid criticism. He went into many non-essential incidents in connection with the board, saying once that he had preferred to stay at home rather than come to Washington.

Nothing Against Johnson

"I had nothing against General Johnson, then or since," Darrow said, "but I felt it wouldn't look good to the public if the review board tied up too closely to the NRA board."

Darrow then described how he received letters requesting speed in his investigation.

Talking in a conversational voice and rarely looking at the committee members, the lawyer said three weeks after his first report was delivered to the President, it came out in the papers one day "preceded by the report of Richberg and followed by Johnson's, or vice versa, at least they got all the paper."

"I hadn't been here long enough to stand in with all the boys," Darrow added, "it came out in an unfortunate way to serve our purpose. But there were some people who read it."

Darrow added that the experience was a "rather cooling thing."

After that, he said, no more reports were delivered to the President.

"We didn't think the law required they be submitted to him, so he could put them in the closet," Darrow added.

Following reports, Darrow testified, were put out in a "surprising way" so that they got in the newspapers.

Members of the committee laughed from time to time at Darrow's humor.

"We had an appropriation of $50,000," he said, "it looked small, especially compared with what the NRA had, but they got here first. We didn't have expensive offices, but we drew our salaries regularly, and when we found we had only $5,000 left, we decided to quit."

Darrow said he supposed he learned something; had a good time; and I hold no grudges.

Voted For Notables

Cambridge, N. Y., March 20 (AP).—Voters in this upstate village wondered today who cast a ballot for Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana and the Rev. C. E. Coughlin of Royal Oak, Mich., for mayor, at the election here yesterday. The senator and the radio priest each received one vote when the ballots were counted in the annual election. Robert Ferris was elected mayor over James F. Robertson, his opponent.

Germany Convinced Arms Act Gives Nation Parity With British For Talks

Roosevelt Emphasizes U. S. Principles of Peace

Washington, March 20 (AP).—Commenting on the European situation arising from German plans to rearm, President Roosevelt today emphasized what he termed the American principle of the good neighbor and expressed hope that this principle would be extended to Europe as a basis for peaceful solution of difficulties there.

This comment was given newspapermen, crowded about his desk, who asked the position of the United States.

The President declined to say whether any note would be sent to Germany pertaining to her move in abrogating treaty provisions to raise a conscript army.

Mendelssohn Club Is Presented File of Its Concert Program Here

Harold S. Brigham, a Former President of Club and Still an Active Member, Makes Valuable Contribution to Club—First Complimentary Concert Given in 1903—Officers and Members of the Club That Year.

The Mendelssohn Club of this city has been presented with a complete set of the programs of its annual concerts, dating back to the first concert given by the club on May 12, 1903. The collection was made by Harold S. Brigham, a former president and still active member of the club. The collection adds considerable interesting data to the history of the club's activities during the years it has been in existence. The club has given a complimentary concert every year since its organization with the exception of 1918, during the World War.

The first complimentary concert was given in Association Hall of the Y. M. C. A. on Pine Grove avenue and that year the club was assisted by Miss Thill Wall, pianist; James W. Wood, vocalist of Poughkeepsie, and the Poughkeepsie Male Quartet, composed of Messrs. L. Mosley, F. J. Schwartz, W. H. Irish and C. M. Eastmead.

The first officers of the club in 1903 were: President, Dr. C. H. Bishop; vice president, Frank R. Powley; secretary, C. K. Loughran; treasurer, E. E. Becker; librarian, E. A. Burger; accompanist, Harry P. Dodge; and musical director, C. M. Eastmead. The members of the club that year were the Rev. Octavius Applegate, E. E. Becker, Dr. C. H. Bishop, Elmer A. Burger, Lawrence J. Clinton, Arthur C. Connolly, Charles W. Dennis, Harry P. Dodge, Charles M. Eastmead, Dr. A. L. Hill, Christopher K. Loughran, Ira D. Minard, Frank R. Powley and Joseph Reynolds, Jr.

It is interesting to note that Elmer A. Burger, Arthur C. Connolly, Dr. A. L. Hill, and C. K. Loughran are still active members of the club.

In 1904, E. P. Kuehn became accompanist of the club and served until 1913, when Harry Elmdorf took over the duties and served until 1920, and since that time Samuel D. Scudder has been the club accompanist.

The conductors of the club have been Charles M. Eastmead from 1902 to 1916; Harry P. Dodge from 1917 to 1922, and Elmer A. Tidmarsh from 1922 to 1935.

The presidents of the club have been Dr. C. H. Bishop from 1903 to 1904; Frank R. Powley in 1907; C. K. Loughran from 1908 to 1909; Elmer A. Burger, 1910; Judge Frederick G. Traver, 1911-12; Joseph Reynolds, Jr., 1914; Elmer A. Burger, 1915-16; C. K. Loughran, 1917; the club was inactive in 1918; Judge Traver in 1919; C. K. Loughran, 1920-21; Harold S. Brigham, 1922; Charles B. Finch, 1923-24; Charles R. O'Connor, 1925; Frank Finley, 1926; Arthur C. Connolly, 1927-29; Mayor C. J. Helsman, 1931-32; Chester Dumond, 1932, and Vernon S. Miller, 1934-35.

During the years that the club has given its annual complimentary concerts it has brought many outstanding musicians to Kingston. Among them have been Charles Gilbert Sprague, noted pianist and composer, who has appeared on many of the club programs.

This year the club has a membership of 50.

Reichswehr Spokesman Says Negotiations Will Take Place in a "Wonderfully Clarified Atmosphere" at Berlin on Monday.

NIGHT DISPLAY

Section of Berlin Today Sees Mock Warfare Spectacle Continued to Jubilation of Throngs.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.) Berlin, March 20.—Germany exultantly emphasized today that because of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's rearmament declaration the Reich will enter its forthcoming negotiations with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, on equal terms.

The negotiations beginning next Monday, a Reichswehr ministry spokesman said, will take place in a "wonderfully clarified atmosphere." "When Sir John Simon arrives, the talks between him and our fuhrer," the spokesman said, "will no longer be complicated by military questions, but the conversations will be limited to political discussions."

Spectacular aerial maneuvers over Berlin last night gave substance to the Reich's claims that she is now a military power to be reckoned with.

Bombers and pursuit planes estimated to number between 100 and 150 soared above the city while citizens crowded the streets to gaze aloft in admiration.

All lights were extinguished at 10 p. m. for the maneuvers, during which anti-aircraft detachments manned their batteries in a mock defense of the capital.

So eager were civilians to witness the display they relayed their traditional German discipline to crowd the thoroughfares despite official orders that they remain indoors.

When German officials now discuss the Reich's rearmament with foreigners, they emphasize Germany's great aim in restoring her military power to place herself in a position to compel gradual world disarmament.

At the word went forth that all German youths 21 years of age will be drafted for army service September 1, a wave of enthusiasm comparable only with that of the fateful days of mobilization in the summer of 1914 swept the Reich.

That Nazidom is bubbling over with joy was apparent in the message of thanks for the nation's support issued by General Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense.

"Enthusiastic letters of congratulations from the people of the Reich and from abroad reached me in such numbers," von Blomberg said through the newspapers, "that it is impossible for me to thank each sender personally. Here I beg you to accept my heartfelt thanks."

Today's Display

Cannon-cracker "bombs" and smoke pots gave the German capital a realistic imitation of an enemy air raid today as Germany's newly created air fleet staged a spectacular maneuver.

Shortly after 9 a. m. bombing planes swooped low over the Kreuzberg district, south of the city's center, where residents were warned to get out of the danger zone or, failing that, to stay indoors out of harm's way.

The imitation bombs were dropped into big piles of dirt in the streets of the district. Smokepots were touched off on the roofs of buildings as the planes passed overhead, indicating that these houses had been set on fire.

The district abutting the Tempelhof Airport, about one-seventh of a mile wide, was isolated from the rest of the city during the bombardment. Potsdammer Platz in the center of Berlin, was jammed with curious citizens watching the maneuvers. Part of the squadron circled above the Platz, executing stunts and dives to the amazement and admiration of the spectators.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr.

Albany, March 20 (Special).—Spice of the day came in the senate with John J. McNaboe, Democratic New Yorker, as the attraction. Packed galleries listened to his words that were spoken on behalf of his measure to outlaw breach of promise and alienation of affection suits as a state policy to be opposed to such practices. The senate voted 39-6 in favor of the McNaboe measure. But before the count was taken there was considerable debate upon the subject between the Queens senator, Elmer F. Quinn, and the sponsor, Mrs. McNaboe, who is regarded as the silver-tongued orator of the upper body, and he was again in his stride yesterday as his needle-like tongue pierced the arguments of those who opposed him, and his quick-functioning brain outdistanced opponents.

Dinner

Tonight every one fortunate enough to get a reservation will attend the testimonial dinner to be given Joseph A. McGinnies, 10-year ruler of the lower house as speaker of the assembly. This person has been mentioned repeatedly in this column; he will be again. Mr. McGinnies is an example of a man who has and still is serving the people of his state with unceasing devotion and fairness, regardless of his party affiliation, and he has won the respect of every legislator regardless of the separation of a political aisle. He has threatened to retire to private life after this year, having been an assemblyman for the past 20 years. If he does, the members will miss one of the staunchest men ever to be a representative of the people.

Miss Speaker

A fortnight ago Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves presided for over an hour in the senate. Yesterday Miss Doris Byrne, Democratic assemblyman, ruled from the speaker's chair for fifteen minutes. It was at the time of passage of bills, and at breakneck speed, or perhaps at a writer's cramp pace, that she hurried the members along.

Napanoch

The assembly passed yesterday a bill introduced by Richard B. Smith, Syracuse Republican, with the title of "An act to confer jurisdiction on the court of claims to hear and determine the claim of Franklin Allen against the state for labor and services and for unlawful arrest, detention, and confinement for a period of approximately five years, in the institution for male defective delinquents."

Burden Of European Peace May Rest Heavily On Shoulders Of These 10

The latest upheaval from the intermittently eruptive volcano of European politics—the announcement by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler that Germany will increase its army in violation of the Versailles treaty—throws into the limelight a number of persons upon whose actions the peace of Europe may depend. Among them are the 10 men pictured here. Ramsay MacDonald, England's prime minister, sometimes is called "the great peace-maker." Sir John Simon is England's "peace-minded" foreign minister; and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, chief "negotiator-at-large" for the Empire. Sir John was in the thick of negotiations with Hitler when the volcano "blew off" and Captain Eden soon will be on his way to Warsaw and Moscow for conferences. Gen. Werner Von Blomberg, reichswehr minister, represents old military Germany. He has kept intact the loyalty of an army of 100,000 men which now is to be increased greatly. On Hitler's other hand is Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, whose multiple uniforms and multiple titles took on a new significance when he brought from secretly a full-fledged air fleet. Pierre-Etienne Flandin, apostle of France's "new deal" and its youngest premier in history, invoked Hitler's wrath when he pushed his two-year military service plan through the chamber of deputies. Pierre Laval is France's foreign minister, and moving spirit for a multilateral arms pact in Europe. The Franco-British air pact is credited to him, as well as the important agreement with Italy on the independence of Austria. From Rome now, Benito Mussolini, "Il Duce" of the roaring voice and unflinching power, watches the recent upheaval with one eye while he looks with the other across the Mediterranean where his troops line the Ethiopian borders. No European peace plan can be complete without a glance at faraway Russia. There is the Soviet Union's astute foreign commissar, Maxim Litvinoff, whose accredited achievements include recognition of Russia by the United States. Litvinoff has been a potent force in disturbing the placidity of the Geneva conferences. It was he who suggested that the whole world disarm, eliminating any further need for arms pacts.

quents at Napanoch maintained as a part of the institutional system of the department of correction."

Sensible

Under present laws a county treasurer who takes over property because of failure of the owner to meet tax requirements must sell this property in a single piece as he received it. Lee B. Mailler, Orange county assemblyman, has had the law amended in his chamber so that treasurers may dispose of such property by splitting it up and selling parts at a time. If a county official has to take over 5,000 acres, he will not find a ready market for a quick turnover, and it will be some time before such a sale can be made. If Mailler's law is passed it will be possible to make sales of parcels of a single piece of property and be to advantage of the state for a quick return, and to the treasurer as his hands will not be so filled. This bill now is before the Senate for concurrence.

"Snowstorm"

A call by the governor for a hurried conference with various leaders caused the Assembly to adjourn unexpectedly. At once hundreds of papers were tossed in the air by happy members who were grateful for the "break" afforded them. It was the same psychology of a teacher suddenly dismissing her class for a special recess, and the first impulse was to gleefully acknowledge their appreciation of their dismissal. The shower of discarded calendars usually comes a day or two before final adjournment; the boys were a little premature this time, but they are eyeing the chronological calendar daily.

Pageboys

Unsung heroes are the clerks and pageboys of the legislative chambers. True, their jobs are small-fry political plums handed out by the ruling party as is the custom, but the young men have to work very hard. All day they chase around the capitol building running errands for the representatives, and at the noon hour they visit the local restaurant to bring up sandwiches and trays of victuals for their superiors' refreshment, and then after the day is officially over they must fix up the voluminous documents for readiness: next meeting, a few hours later. Last night they worked until one. Monday it is later than that.

Beats in Cites

Schenectady, N. Y., March 20 (AP).—Believing that a plain-clothes man has a better chance of catching criminals than a "copper in harness," Police Chief William Funston instructed his night platoons to cover their beats in cities. The idea was thought up by Public Safety Commissioner George D. Lambrone. It is all part of an experiment which the commissioner hopes will snare a few prowlers.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or calluses, do not run the risk of blind infection by using them. Statistics show that many infections have resulted from this seemingly innocent practice of picking corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Le-Mo's, rub a little on any painful corn or callus. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callus will loosen and lift off easily with the finger—dead and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Le-Mo's removes such infections as warts, itching, pruned or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the Le-Mo's endorsement given by the druggists.

To the owner's feet of every hard worker, a corn means the loss of his most valuable asset in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it mean the death of his day's work to him. A corn and people are warned to stop it—NOW.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

With spring and out-door days just ahead, mothers are thinking about youthful wardrobes and especially about washable clothes which are so necessary if the children are to be kept spic and span through the season of warmer weather.

The new styles are particularly interesting, with sheer ginghams well liked for girls' frocks—the model sketched above on the older girl uses chiffon tissue gingham and white net fastenings the hand embroidered collar. There are shoulder pleats at back and front, short puffed sleeves, double, ruffle-trimmed collar and the belt goes all the way round. A style that looks well for any age, being featured in all sizes between 2 and 12.

Another new and interesting companion set of fine ribbed pique for brother and sister is also sketched above—the unusual feature is the handling of the double breasted effect on both garments.

Brother's navy jacket has a sailor collar with white braid trimming and two patch pockets—a duplicate of this jacket comes with sister's outfit too. The white pique under suit fits blue binding and pearl buttons like sister's sleeveless dress. Brother's blouse is sleeveless and the matching pants button on.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1617-B

Stunning One-Piece Daytime Frock

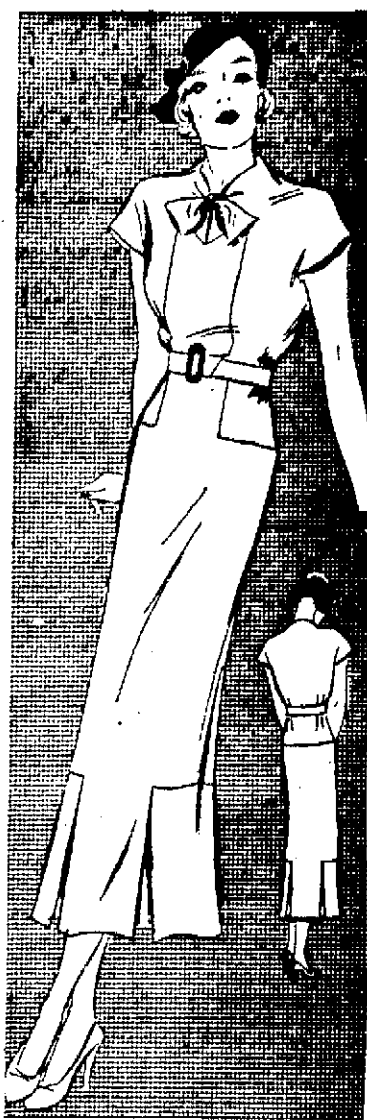

The new collections of daytime clothes show a delightful assortment of variety in type, color, scheme, and fabric. One smart frock follows another in an unending chain of Spring and Summer fashions. Daytime frocks for sport and look equally important whether they are cut in one, or two pieces. The latter type of frock takes more time dressing so imitations of it have sprung up in one-piece models with hip-line seamings.

A stunning frock is shown today. It is made in one piece along tailored lines tempered by softness in the knotted tie at the throat. For Summer sports and general wear this is a perfect model, and one that is within easy reach of all.

Dropped shoulders eliminate the setting-in of sleeves, and are used to give a smooth, unbroken line through the shoulders. A front panel treatment produces slender lines of height, and kick-pleats, back and front, make provision for free action.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1617-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, and 42. Corresponding measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (24) requires about 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material.

PATERN 5327

If you have a garden, you probably are most impatient now to see your tulips bloom. In this quilt, Tulip Patch, the flower has been reproduced—you can have a gay quilt if you do the flowers in different colors. The block is a simple one and makes a quilt that will be a piece of handwork to be proud of.

In pattern 5327 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt; three color schemes; step-by-step directions for making the quilt, and exact yardage requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 253 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

And isn't it smart? Start with a lovely crepe print with long sleeves for first spring wear. Then of course you'll want a cape dress of bright plain crepe or perhaps in gayly dotted crepe silk. For your summer wardrobe, what could be smarter than the cool yoked model fashioned of white or pastel tab silk, checked lines or striped cotton? Make all three with one pattern.

Style No. 3015 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1/2 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Send TEN CENTS (10c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred) for PATTERN. Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS AND STYLE NUMBER. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE YOU WISH.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quaint Horsemanship

New York—The horsemanship of Irving Kanof leaves something to be desired, thinks the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Raymond Mulligan, S. P. C. A. agent, explained it this way in magistrate's court:

"Part of the time he was on the horse's neck and part of the time he was on the tail."

Magistrate Thomas Casey said Kanof might be "technically guilty" of cruelty to his steed on a morning center, but dismissed the complaint with a warning to improve his horsemanship.

No. 18

Rensselaer, Ind.—The eighteenth child, a boy, was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Joseph of Newland, Ind. Fourteen of their children are living.

Personal Fire

Troy, N. Y.—Troy firemen had one too many fires to fight all at once.

While they were putting water on a grocery store blaze, some thoughtless person tossed a cigarette into a gasoline scummed pool and set the fire apparatus on fire. Both blazes were put out, but not before a pumper was disabled and a ladder truck scorched.

"Thith lth a Thikup"

Chicago—Lisping, affirms Paul Harmon, 23, is a big handicap to an ambitious robber.

Arrested as a "lipping gunman," Harmon told officers it's hard to hide identity or be convincing when one has to say: "Thith lth a thikup."

Excuse It, Please

Punxsutawney, Pa.—Said Michael Kasun after the crash:

"Just help us down, please, we're all right."

Kasun and his wife were picked off the pilot of a locomotive that carried them and their automobile 300 yards down the track after being hit at a grade crossing. Only a trifle shaken up, Kasun drove his car under its own power to a garage for repairs.

Labor Note

Cheyenne, Wyo.—There's a job in Cheyenne for some one who can "take it"—dog-catching.

R. F. Lanning resigned the post because he "figured life is too short to take the abuse a dog catcher has to take."

"It's a thankless job but one that has to be done," advertised Police Chief T. Joe Cahill.

Des Moines—"I lost mamma's keys," confessed 3-year-old Patricia Joan Dunley to Municipal Judge Powers.

And so-o-o-o, Mrs. Milley Dunley was acquitted of the charge of parking overtime.

$10,000 Dessert

Chicago—For injuries she said she suffered because she swallowed a tack in her ice cream, Mrs. Frieda Castell, would like to have $10,000.

She filed a suit for that amount against an ice cream company.

Broadway: "Anne of Green Gables." Read by millions of people, the story of "Anne of Green Gables" becomes visual on the Broadway screen as it follows the novel carefully and faithfully through the sympathetic and human tale of an orphan girl who is adopted by an old couple, and her life as she grows into a beautiful woman. Done by RKO Radio Pictures, the same production company who created "Little Women" and "Little Minister", this motion picture is alive with beauty, pathos, humor and characterization. Lovable and charming, moving and stirring, it is family entertainment well worth seeing. Anne Shirley, O. P. Heggie, Tom Brown, Helen Westley, and Sara Haden are prominent in the cast. Added short features include a comedy with Chick Chandler and a color presentation called the "Little Dutch Mill."

Orpheum: "President Vanishes" and "That's Gratitude." What might happen to these United States were the President to suddenly disappear during some heart-rending crisis is enacted in the first attraction, an action filled, patriotic motion picture that flares with moments of intense excitement only to change sometimes into a placid mountain brook. It warns of traitors within our own nation, and of men who play a nation for the chance for personal advantage. Walter Byron, Janet Beecher, Edward Arnold and Osgood Perkins are in the cast. "That's Gratitude" is a comedy of domestic misunderstanding with Frank Craven, Mary Carlisle, Charles Sabin and Helen Ware.

Kingston: "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" and "Maybe It's Love." Claude Rains, who rose to motion picture stardom in a play in which his face was never seen (The Invisible Man) rises to rare greatness in the opening film, as distinguished a piece of work as has ever come to the screen. In it, Mr. Rains proves to be one of the really important actors of today, and the story is exceptional and different. In the role of a clever, intelligent pacifist writer, Mr. Rains tells his mind to an unscrupulous publisher, who betrays his trust by selling out to the munitions industry. Mr. Rains, however, gets his revenge in a strange and effective manner. Gripping, vibrant, compelling, this movie is a combination of timely story, forceful acting and flawless direction. Joan Bennett and Lionel Atwill are also in the cast. "Maybe It's Love" offers Gloria Stuart, Ross Alexander, Henry Travers and Joseph Cawthorne in a story of young love that overcomes family friction, interfering relations

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The Grace Moores, Irene Dunne, Jeanette MacDonald and Mary Ellises of the screen have to work twice as hard to get their voices out as the Lawrence Tibbets and Nelson Eddys.

It is the recording instruments that prove the point with their delicate measurements of sound vibrations—but let Douglas Shearer, the recording director, explain it: "Nelson Eddy's voice," he says, "registered plus twenty-four decibels, the decibel being the unit for measuring sound in recording. Miss MacDonald's voice registered plus thirty-six points higher. The energy in producing sound is doubled for every six points.

Double Energy

"This is why good sopranos are so scarce. They have to expend twice the energy the male singers do to get the same effect on the ear. It means they must have twice the physical energy, twice the nervous and physical endurance. I don't mean to the matter of muscle, or athletic prowess, but in stamina and ability to force the vocal cords to double duty."

A baritone voice, he explains, creates sound vibrations that are "slower and wider," while the soprano voice is composed of faster and shorter vibrations. Thus twice the energy must be put into them to vibrate the human ear drum with the same intensity the longer and slower male vibration does.

Rogers 'Edits Weekly'

"Life Begins at Forty" has Will Rogers in the ingratiating role of editor of a village weekly, which is full of that homesy humor which characterizes his films. The title of course is taken from the Walter Pitkin book, and the idea therein propounded is developed incidentally in the plot. That concerns a youth (Richard Cromwell) who has been to jail, convicted of bank robbery, and who is befriended by Rogers. The banker (George Barbier) doesn't like Dick, and the feud goes so far as to take Rogers' paper from him. The editor, with Dick, starts a rival sheet on an old hand press—but that is not a he starts. He finishes, after several climaxes of hilarious comedy, with his old paper back. Dick's name cleared, and the girl (Rochelle Hudson) is Dick's arms.

Slim Summerville as the village loafer is important in the comedy, along with Jane Darwell. Sterling Holloway, Roger Imhof and a crew of fantastic box-calls who twice do their bit for the cause. George Marshall (the did those Booby Jones golf shorts) directed.

REMODELING AND
NEW CONSTRUCTIONAttic Stairway
Easy To Install

The installation of disappearing stairways in many home frequently makes possible utilization of waste attic space for small bedrooms, children's play rooms, or dens.

Construction details in many existing homes makes installation of permanent stairs to the attic both inconvenient and impracticable.

Ways and means should be provided so that the attic can be quickly reached in the case of a fire, which may start from a spark on the roof, a defective chimney or otherwise.

A disappearing stairway, which may be easily lowered or raised as desired, provides a safe and practical method by which an attic can be profitably used and, at the same time, make it quickly accessible in case of fire.

GLASS ENTERS REPAIR
FIELD OVER NATION.

Additions of solaria, sun porches and health rooms are becoming a prominent part of many modernization projects on homes in the nation.

Glass is being utilized advantageously in many instances, providing additional light and creating decorative effects where before there was a minimum of lighting and sunlight access. Materials in these projects range from ordinary window glass, plate glass to ultraviolet transmitting glass, the latter being used in converting solaria into health rooms. The ultraviolet transmitting glass allows the passage of the health giving rays of the sun into the interior of a room.

Remodeling Is Means of Producing Revenue

In addition to the increased attractiveness and service to the home owner or occupant that result from remodeling and modernizing of a dwelling, this type of building operation also may be undertaken with the motive of producing revenue and increasing the owner's income.

Technical experts of the Southern Pine Association recently have suggested some of the "improvements" that pay for themselves, or remodeling which may be done with the idea of augmenting the family income. Frequently, according to their suggestions, the addition of a bedroom sleeping porch, finished attic rooms or half-story, or a new garage to a small home, can be made a profitable investment, and such additional rooms, or buildings, can be made to produce revenue, besides enhancing the permanent value of the existing property.

The Association's building experts suggest that single bedroom might be conveniently added to a cottage or bungalow to provide for a roomer, or a sleeping porch could be built onto the home and made entirely suitable as sleeping quarters for the boy of the household, and his bedroom rented to a roomer. By providing attic rooms, or building on a half-story to the single-story home, the parents with one or two children could use the upper rooms of the family's sleeping quarters and the original bedrooms could be rented to two or more roomers, thus bringing in considerable revenue from the small home, paying for the improvements, and without causing much bother or inconvenience to the home owner.

Many homes now without a garage have plenty of room on the lot for such a building and if the owner does not have a car he could rent the new garage to some neighboring car owner who has no garage on his premises. Frequently an extra garage can be built adjoining the old garage at very moderate cost, for rental purposes without encroaching too much upon the area necessary to preserve for a proper size yard or surrounding home ground.

Suggestions For Building
Or Modernizing Kitchen

Whether building a new kitchen, or remodeling an old one, the accompanying illustration suggests many ideas respecting simplicity and convenience of arrangement and improvements in light facilities. Note the built-in light panels that extend over the window and sink, over the stove and in the center of the ceiling.

This kitchen is well equipped with built-in cupboards, cabinets, shelving, drawers and bins, so as to provide a convenient place for every loose object, utensil, pot or pan needed in the modern kitchen and which the neat housewife desires to be kept out of sight when not in use.

Through the arrangement and remodeling suggested here the kitchen becomes a friendly place where members of the family or visiting friends may gather in an intimate way, have a cup of coffee or sandwich, or mix and enjoy a drink; therefore, it must be kept orderly, clean and cheerful in color and lighting. Besides this kitchen will be a great "step-saver" for the housewife, and add to the comforts of the home.

(Editor's Note: Copy of "Southern Pine Book of Remodeling" containing numerous illustrated suggestions for interior and exterior remodeling, and practical information on this subject, will be sent free on request to Southern Pine Association, New Orleans, La.)

CLEVER DECORATION
GIVES SPACIOUSNESS

Much can be done through the art of the interior decorator to remove the cramped atmosphere of small living rooms, and to give an air of spaciousness to those of ordinary size, through arrangement of furniture and furnishings and the judicious use of color.

One of the first rules of the art is to keep the center of the room clear, with the heavier pieces of furniture and the rugs parallel or at right angles to the walls. Small pieces of furniture or round tables may be set across the corners.

Attention should be paid to contours in arrangement of furniture and hanging of pictures and other wall ornaments. The peaks of such contours should center over the heavier pieces of furniture, through the hanging of a picture or mirror, or over the ends through placement of pedestals, screens, bookcases, grandfather clocks or similar items which are higher than the tables, chairs and settees.

Too much mahogany or other dark wood gives a heavy atmosphere to the room. Much can be done to lighten this effect by use of a few painted or drapes pieces. Mirrors also lighten a room, and add greatly to the effect of spaciousness. They can be hung on the walls, placed over the mantel or paneled in doors or walls.

Approximately five million homes in the United States lack the commonest of bathing facilities and electric wiring, recent surveys indicate.

REPORT SHOWS FARM BUILDINGS NEED REPAIRS

Reports of the federal government's survey of farm housing, which was conducted by the CWA in 300 counties throughout the country, show that a large majority of farm homes are greatly in need of repairs, replacements, renewals or new installations.

Many uses for lumber are found in repair and modernization jobs on the farms, according to the Southern Pine Association. Among such projects on the farms for which longleaf and shortleaf Southern pine are specifically recommended are included numerous jobs of repair and improvement of farm dwellings for which lumber is required. In addition Southern pine is recommended for new barns, milk-houses, hog and poultry houses, implement sheds, cattle shelters, silos, corn cribs, feed houses, racks, corrals, granaries, green-houses, fences and other necessary farm structures.

Economists agree that the repair and new construction of buildings can be done cheaper now than probably at any time in the next several years.

Wall Repairs

Late winter is an excellent time to modernize walls and ceilings with a fresh coat of paint or clean, bright wallpaper. It will then be ready for spring house cleaning. This kind of interior work is not affected by weather conditions outside. It can be done economically before available painters and paper hangers are needed for spring construction work.

Interior Remodeling
Adds Esthetic Value

Much is to be gained through remodeling and modernizing of the interior of many existing homes that, aside from providing greater comfort, will enhance their esthetic values, their attractiveness and good taste.

They point out that "good taste in the interior arrangement and appointments of a home is not measured in terms of money spent. It is not circumscribed by 'periods' in architecture or furniture, and it is not dependent upon the dictates of an interior decorator. It is the intangible quality which makes of either the one-room apartment or the twenty-room mansion a thing of sincere beauty; pleasing, but never affected; restful, but never dull; stimulating, but never dominating."

Today, more and more, the home owner and home maker are declared to be thinking of their homes in terms of good taste. They are learning to look for the real and to avoid the sham. Homes are being built with a thought to their settings—more indigenous architecture and less foreign importations. In wood-work, the natural beauty of the wood is being allowed to speak for itself without the camouflage of overdone ornamentations. Furniture is being bought with a thought for its line, as well as its durability or antiquity. Color harmony is being stressed in its rightful importance.

In these days there is seen a new simplicity in the modern home—a weeding out of the unnecessary, the making of a room the background of personality. There is a conscious effort to relate walls, and woodwork, and floors, furniture, and textile until they constitute a complete harmony of line, form and color.

Simply because a room has "gone modern" does not mean conclusively that it is good, the experts point out. There are things in the modern style that are cheap and obvious, fakes imitating the real and the good, just as cheap imitations of the real and good of any period. But the modern trend, it is declared, does definitely lead the way to new possibilities and beauty in living in this modern age.

MANY INTERIORS NEED MODERNIZING IN CONFORMITY WITH COMMON SENSE IDEAS

Poorly arranged interiors, as considered from the viewpoint of present day requirements and customs, constitute a noticeable defect in many of the homes standing today. This is said to apply almost equally to the average home built in the last ten years, as well as to those built from two to five decades ago.

Numerous houses lack provision in space and arrangement for some of the modern, "new-fangled" appliances and equipment which now are regarded as virtually essential by the housewives of this day, while many other homes lack the ordinary convenience of adequate closet and shelf space, proper space arrangement of walls and doors, proper placing and sizes of windows, suitable rooms for study, rest or recreation, and other needs of modern families.

The providing of these various features, regarded as fundamental now, is what sound, modern, home designing offers. Until Uncle Sam popularized the word "modernize" in home improvements, that word gave a scare to many home owners. Practically a great many persons had an idea it meant transforming their relatively comfortable dwellings into something "freakish" or bizarre.

Today it is realized that "modernization" doesn't mean that at all. In its proper sense modernization does not steal the good old-fashioned comfort and simplicity from the hearthstone. On the contrary, it preserves that comfort and simplicity and adds greater convenience and attractiveness, while eliminating the tiresome rococo frills and mid-Victorianism that accompanied the old-fashioned atmosphere.

Sound principles of modernizing and beautifying interiors—and exteriors as well—are based upon the practical, common sense appreciation of comfort, beauty and utility of the home. The comfort, pleasure and refinement the family gets out of its home, is in exact proportion to the comfort, pleasure and refinement they put into it.

APPLY ZINC PAINT
IN WARM WEATHER

Best results are obtained when applying metallic zinc paint to iron or steel on warm days. All rust should first be carefully removed from the surface to be coated. To apply zinc paint on galvanized or zinc coated surfaces, best results are obtained when the surfaces are allowed to weather for about six months. Paint will adhere better to such a surface which becomes roughened slightly from exposure. A similar condition can be produced on unweathered zinc or galvanized surfaces by painting them with a dilute solution of copper sulphate, copper acetate, or copper chloride, using four ounces to a gallon of water. The surface should be allowed to dry completely before applying paint.

A conservative estimate of the amount of money needed to put the homes of the United States in good physical condition is $1,600,000,000.

Poster Gives
Safety Rules

At a recent conference of the National Manufacturers Association a large illustrated poster was displayed with the following 10 safety rules for safeguarding electric service in the home:

1. Never run cords under rugs. They become worn too quickly.
2. Do not place cords in door jams. Squeezing like this breaks the protective covering.
3. Cords should never be run over radiators or steam pipes. Insist on approved cords made for use in damp places and where contact with metal is likely to occur.
4. Never leave heating appliances connected when not in use. Fire is too frequently caused this way.
5. Do not disconnect appliances by pulling on the cord. This loosens the connections and is a frequent cause of trouble.
6. Cords should never be used as a substitute for permanent and properly installed wiring.
7. Cords should be examined regularly. Worn out cords should be replaced immediately to prevent short circuits.
8. Insist on approved labeled cord with appliances, lamps and cord attachments. They wear longer and are safe.
9. Be sure to have all electrical repairs and wiring made by a competent electrical contractor.
10. Having all wiring inspected by an electrical inspector. This is your assurance that the work is properly installed and will give better service under safe conditions.

Practicality Plus Artistry

Combination Makes It Ideal For Average Family.

A combination hard to beat—practicality and artistic artistry—join to make this small Colonial house ideal for the average family.

Simple, but sturdy, in its construction and workmanship, it doesn't demand too much of the pocketbook. There are five well ventilated rooms, with adequate closet space everywhere.

Thoroughly modern in the convenience it offers, the home has a definite atmosphere of the past about it. It is of frame construction, with a major scheme of white painted siding for the exterior, and white oak floorboards, with the same oak used on the inside of the front door, to deep brown oak, and red brick chimney.

An entrance platform of limestone leads into a charming living room, and adjacent dining room. The doorway is an old Colonial type fireplace. A French door opens on to a large living porch, with a view over the garden beyond. In the rear is a dining room, also having access to the living porch, with a well lighted kitchen and servants' entrance at the rear. The garage, for one car, is attached to the house.

On the second floor are two charming bedrooms, with bath and built-in storage space over the garage. The overall dimensions are 27 feet in length and 12 feet in depth, with a square of approximately 290 sq. ft. of floor space. The house may be built.

Wide Benefits of Home Building

A wide variety of interests in every community are favorably affected by increased home-building and home-owning. Virtually every trade, business, profession and industry in the locality shares in the benefits that accrue, and they all should be interested in stimulating home-building and home-owning by cooperating heartily in such movements.

Construction of homes not only helps to keep the sawmill industry operating, but also it showers direct benefits upon real estate, hardware, lumber and material dealers; masonry, building, plumbing, heating and electrical contractors, painters, and decorators, architects, landscape gardeners, banks, building and loan associations, lawyers, title abstract firms, security bond and fire insurance companies.

Additional benefits also accrue to every community to electric light, power, gas and telephone companies, to florists, seed merchants, dealers in furniture and dry goods. The grocer, the druggist, the milkman, the ice-man, the "butcher, the baker, the candle-stick maker," and virtually all retail merchants likewise receive indirect benefits from home-building and home-owning.

Besides all these advantages to a community, the standard and volume of good citizenship in every locality is enhanced and augmented by the addition of new home-owners, new taxpayers, who thereby become more deeply interested in public affairs and acquire more serious appreciation of their responsibilities to their own town and state.

In a community of home-owners almost invariably will be found a prosperous and contented population—good citizens who respect and protect the rights and property of all others.

Inexpensive Plank Flooring

Some new homes done in certain architectural style call for the use of random width plank flooring. This type of flooring is attractive, but because it is a little more costly than the ordinary oak flooring it is not practical for many of us. Here is the way to effect practically the same result with ordinary oak flooring.

When laying the new flooring, have the carpenter bore the second, third or fourth board about an eighth of an inch, repeating the operation on the board immediately following. This makes a V shaped joint random in width, and, in the casual observer's eyes, is indistinguishable from the expensive random width flooring. At the end of each piece of flooring, cut a half inch wide with a blunt edged steel die and let the painter touch the inside of the curve with a paint shade darker than that used on the rest of the floor. Thus you have saved for this type of floor.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, March 20 (AP).—Financial markets maintained an even keel today as Wall Street divided its attention between Washington and Europe.

Midweek business statistics were about a standoff, and shares received little impetus from other markets.

Steel shares held up fairly well in the face of "Iron Age's" report of a further dip in production and in scrap prices. A little buying appeared in some of the public utilities, including American Water Works and Public Service of N. J. Farm implements and mail order issues were up a little and motors and rails were about steady.

Coca Cola was a strong feature, opening 3 points higher and extending its gain to 5 in a thin market. Oils were also in modest demand, as crude futures showed a firm tendency. Standard of N. J. pushed up a major fraction.

Soft spots included some of the non-ferrous metals and tobaccos.

Lieut. John L. S. N., retired, was again guest instructor at the Troop No. 12 Sea Scout meeting, Tuesday night. Last week he explained the meaning of navigation and gave some helpful criticism and hints on wearing the uniform correctly. This week he explained the meaning of the flag and ship etiquette. The Sea Scouts are now preparing for the annual regatta at Washington next August. The members are also looking forward to summer sailing when they can get out in their boats.

HIGH SCHOOL MANUAL SHOPS INSPECTED BY P. T. A.

For an hour previous to the general meeting of the High School P. T. A. last night the machine and wood-working shops in the Manual Training Building, adjacent to the high school, were opened for inspection and exhibition.

Since the machine shop, under the admirably skilled direction of Hubert Hoderath, is located on the ground floor, it was the first to be visited by the crowd of interested Kingstonsians, members of the vocational training department of Wallkill Prison, and parents, especially fathers, admiring and wondering at the skill with which their own sons were operating machines on which they demonstrated the actual processes involved in making every day tools and art metal work. Other boys worked busily at their benches, while several girls students piled away diligently at their mechanical drawing boards. At various points were exhibited such finished shop projects as everyday tools, art metal work of copper and wrought iron, candlesticks, vases, bookends, ash trays, house numbers, weather vanes, porch lanterns, and such electrical projects as had introduced the boys to the principles of practical electricity, the construction of the telegraph key, transformer, and electric motor. Overhead floated model airplanes of all sizes and types.

When the visitors could be persuaded to tear themselves from all these fascinating and practical evidences of the boys' accomplishments, they proceeded to the woodworking shop on the floor above, where, amid the deafening roar of band saw, circle saw, planer, and four lathes, they found still more boys at work, under the watchful eye of their instructor, Ellsworth E. Mack, upon various stages of equally interesting projects in wood, such things as electric clock cases, book ends, smoking stands, end tables, candlesticks, and even a pair of dumb-bells. On exhibit again were their finished products. Most conspicuous among these were an exquisitely inlaid box, an electric clock mounted on a frame made in the shape of a ship's wheel, a side chair, and a flat top mahogany teacher's desk, entirely designed, built, and finished by the students from the rough lumber.

To those older men and women for whom high school still meant grubbing in dead languages and conjugating scores of irregular verbs, this evening's exhibition was indeed an eye opener, an inspiration, and a foreshadowing of what changes every citizen must recognize are still to come in secondary school education which has ceased by and large to be the college preparatory course of a generation ago, to meet the demands of millions of boys and girls of high school age for whom college would be not alone a financial impossibility but a tragic waste of manual skill and aptitude. Kingstonsians may indeed be proud of the beginning the direction of opportunity for all rather than the small professionally minded minority of its high school youth.

Gonzie Dawson Says Husband Complained Of Cost, Slashed Her

Another chapter in the continued story of the marital difficulties of Roland Dawson, 33, negro, who conducts a Cities Service gas station about four miles from Kingston on the Saugerties road, and his wife, Gonzie Dawson, was written Tuesday night. Gonzie was brought to the Ulster county jail by Trooper Arthur Reilly to await a hearing this morning before Justice Walter Webber on a disorderly conduct charge, preferred by her husband. She was suffering from numerous slashes in the hip and on the arm, which were dressed by Dr. H. L. Van Norstrand, jail physician. Her husband, also arrested before Justice Webber on a charge of assault, was released under $25 bail, pending a hearing this morning.

Gonzie was released from the county jail Monday, after serving a 30 days sentence imposed by Judge Webber, she having been arrested January 2 on complaint of her husband. She returned home and the same night had her husband arrested on a charge of assault. Dawson was brought to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff McCullough and held for a hearing before Justice John Acker at 3 o'clock Tuesday night, at which time he was freed $25, which he paid and was discharged.

know what kind of a weapon was used to inflict the wounds she received.

Dawson and his wife were both arraigned before Justice Walter Webber this forenoon, the former on a charge of assault in the second degree and the latter on the disorderly conduct charge.

Held for Grand Jury.

Francis Doyle appeared for the wife, Gonzie Dawson, and following the hearing the complaint against her was dismissed. Her husband did not get off so easily. Justice Webber holding him for the grand jury, and he was brought to the Ulster county jail, where fingerprints were taken.

The sheriff's office has been interested in Dawson's affairs for some time, following complaints that he did not confine his activities to selling gasoline. Last Saturday night deputies sent out by Sheriff Saxe, acting under a search warrant, made a search of the premises, but found nothing on which he could be held. They had better luck this morning, when Deputy Moynihan and Vredenburg, with Trooper Reilly, again went over the premises, and a chicken coop on the premises, found a jar partly filled and several bottles full of liquid, the nature of which will be investigated and proper action taken.

She boarded the train at Chicago, railroad detectives said, and carried a ticket for Montreal. Several bills in the bag were of $10,000 denomination, officers said.

Salvation Army to Canvass for $8,000 To Relieve the Needy

(Contributed)

As the fifth year of general unemployment progresses, the sufferings of Kingston's unfortunate are greater than ever before. A careful survey of the entire situation clearly shows, that in addition to the extreme needs of this trying winter, the Salvation Army faces a year of the greatest need ever known.

Last year the Salvation Army in Kingston aided families totaling more than 6,000 persons. Shoes, clothing, furniture, furnishings, toys and Christmas dinners to the number of 6,238 were given. A vast number of meals and lodgings were supplied transients, many of them women and children. Home and jail visitation totaled 5,003 and 1,675 War Crys and other printed matter distributed free. Transportation was supplied or employment secured for additional persons who would otherwise have become charges on the community. A grand total of 59,768 attended the 991 religious and character building meetings conducted both inside and outside the buildings.

Funds Exhausted

All funds were entirely exhausted before the beginning of the present year and new money must be obtained at once to continue the work. In addition to this the buildings are in very bad repair and some things must be done to them. Very little has been spent on the property for years. The gymnasium entirely worn out and now out of commission can be made usable at a comparatively small cost. This is one of the things especially needed as it will provide for hundreds of boys and girls in this part of the city.

Need $8,000

For all of this, and to carry on the extensive relief work necessary for the entire year of 1935, the sum of $8,000 is required.

In order to properly present this work to the general public, a large committee composed of the leading men and women of the community has been formed, from which is now being organized a Permanent Advisory Board to carry on the work permanently. The General Committee is headed by General Chairman N. LeVan Haver. The Honorary Chairman is Judge Joseph M. Fowler. Edward H. Remmert, Executive Vice-President of The National Ulster County Bank of Kingston, is treasurer. Mrs. Harry B. Walker is chairman of the Women's Division.

The General Committee have been meeting from time to time working out plans and preparing for the general public canvass. Monday evening, March 25, at a mass meeting to be held in the County Courthouse, following this meeting, a women's team in each of the thirteen wards of the city under the direction of Mrs. Harry B. Walker, chairman of the Women's Division, will call at every home in their respective wards. There will also be a men's team in each of the thirteen wards under the general direction of Chairman Haver, who will canvass every store and office in each ward. An Industrial Committee will cover all shops and factories.

Beginning with Tuesday noon, March 26, and continuing every noon through the remainder of the week, all workers will meet at 12:15 p. m. at Salvation Army hall for luncheon and reports.

Subscriptions

As the money being raised in this campaign is to provide for the work throughout the entire year 1935, subscriptions can be paid any time during the year. Both large and small subscriptions are needed. Large subscriptions from those who can give them, for in no other way can this money be obtained. Small subscriptions from those who cannot give the larger amounts.

The success of this undertaking means much to our community. The amount sought is not large when the scope of the work for which it is being raised is considered, and the friends of the Salvation Army in this community are counted. The Salvation Army always administers to that greatest of all groups in every community—the very poor. No other organization understands this group quite so well or can serve them as does the Army.

This is generally recognized everywhere and the Salvation Army in Kingston is counted on to care for the very poor who have always been their special care, and are not being reached by any other agencies.

Pledges Desired

If the poor of this community, otherwise not covered, are to be cared for on even the lowest possible basis, it is absolutely necessary that every dollar of this $8,000 be obtained at this time. Everyone can and should give something when approached during the coming week by the workers. Please do not contribute cash but fill out a pledge card instead. Should the workers miss anyone in the city, such persons are invited to bring or send their subscriptions to the Salvation Army building, 34 North Front street, Kingston, N. Y.

At the Salvation Army the coffee pot and the soup kettle are always on, so that all hungry may be fed and there may be found the word of cheer and expert advice so valuable to the friendless. Although the depression has lasted a long time, we must not be weary in well doing. Every subscription at this time will relieve hunger, sickness, poverty, friendlessness, sorrow and unemployment.

Mass Meeting Monday

All who are interested in the Salvation Army and the work of the poor in this community, as well as team and committee members should be present at the opening mass meeting next Monday evening, and at each bi-monthly report meeting thereafter.

It has been figured that the insectivorous birds destroy over two-thirds of the annual insect crop in this country. War Clouds Cause No Thrill Among Traders

New York, March 20 (AP).—European war clouds have sent no visible thrill surging through exporters who might profit from conflict.

On the New York Stock Exchange, so-called "war babies," such as stocks of munitions makers and exporters of other materials used in fighting, were not jarred loose from the comparative apathy which has enveloped market trading for some months.

Minor booms in such securities occurred during the shelling of Shanghai when it appeared that portions of the international settlement might be destroyed by the Japanese. Boston, a necessity for waging war, was not brought out of the slump which early last week tore great holes in values in the futures market. Farm products also appeared little affected by foreign government actions.

Interpretations in informed Wall Street circles place the answer not in the theory that war will not materialize, but in the belief that American businessmen for the most part are convinced excessive profits have been taken out of war.

If war should come shortly, say exporters, there would be an instant demand from the belligerents for munitions, food, clothing and hundreds of necessities, but these same exporters cannot envisage themselves standing on the sidelines of international strife and profiting by trade.

The belief is current that the government perhaps would step in to limit profits by taking excessive earnings in taxation or fixing export prices themselves at low levels. Another belief is that no European nation has enough gold or acceptable foreign exchange to continue buying here for any length of time or in any great quantities. The United States government has curtailed loans to nations which have not paid the last war debts, handicapping sales on a credit basis.

Release of Americans.

Louis Wiley, Famous Newspaper Executive, Died in N.Y. City Today

Business Manager of New York Times, 65, Victim of Operation—Was Honored by Many Nations for Activities.

New York, March 20 (AP).—Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, died today at the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. Mr. Wiley, who was 65, was one of the nation's best known newspaper executives. He had been associated with the Times since 1896 and had been its business manager since 1905. He started as a reporter in up-state New York. He was unmarried.

He had undergone an operation at the Medical Center on March 11. He was born at Hornell, N. Y., and attended a private school in Mt. Sterling, Ky. After four years as a reporter, he was made business manager of the Post-Express, Rochester, N. Y., a position which he held until 1895.

Mr. Wiley knew the newspaper business thoroughly, from the editorial side as well as the "front office." He addressed many gatherings throughout the country and served on numerous organizations representing his profession.

"America is the only nation today that can truthfully boast of a free and independent press," he said in a recent address.

His answer to charges that newspapers over-emphasized crime news was that anyone deliberately choosing a newspaper which was the product of sensationalism had "only himself to blame."

His international activities won recognition from foreign governments. He received the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor from Aristide Briand, then premier of France. Italy made him a Cavalier of the Order of the Crown. King Ferdinand conferred the Rumanian order of the crown on him.

Greece, Belgium, Serbia and Czechoslovakia were others to honor him.

Mr. Wiley was on the executive committee of the League of Nations Non-partisan Association, among his other international activities.

Legionnaires All Set For Tilt With Union City Reds Tonight

The Union City Reds will have practically the same lineup tonight when they oppose the Kingston Legionnaires on the Municipal Auditorium court, which defeated the locals in a previous visit some six weeks ago. At that time, a big snowstorm delayed the Reds, but it did not dim their shooting eye and after a sensational contest they emerged the winners by a 21 to 20 score. Manager Phil Miller in a communication to "Pop" Morgenweck states that he will have Paulino Adamo, his sensational shooting star, and "Hunk" Anderson, former N. Y. U. luminary, in the forward positions. Eddie Benson will hold down the pivot position with Bobby Synott and Freddie Gerken as guards.

Gerken will be remembered as the diminutive star who was the spark plug of the Reds' attack and fast as streaked lightning. He made a wonderful impression on his first appearance here and reminded the oldtime fans of the great Barney Sedran. He can do everything that makes a good basketball player—pass, shoot and for a little fellow, he can take it. Adamo, who is one of the league's leading scorers, is another crack shot and teaming with Hunk Anderson, makes a very formidable pair. Anderson is a former N. Y. U. star. Eddie Benson is the big centerman who played a few games with Albany in the State League until he graduated to the Reds.

The Reds won a double-header over the week-end, taking the Boston Trojans at the 71st Regiment Armory on Friday night by a 23-22 score and then trimming the Visitation, Sunday afternoon at Union City, 24 to 22.

The Legionnaires played in Egg Harbor, N. J., Monday night and against the Atlantic City Sandpipers of the Eastern League at Atlantic City last evening.

Corky Stanton will be in the Legionnaire lineup tonight. He was unable to make the trip to Egg Harbor and Atlantic City however, due to the fact that he is employed by the G-E at Schenectady and was unable to get the time off.

The game tonight should prove another banner attraction in local sport annals for the Morgenwecks are determined to avenge the defeat the American Leagueers hung on them a few weeks ago. The reserved seat sale has been fairly heavy but there are still a number of choice seats left and can be reserved by calling the Legion Building. Roger Baer's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing after the games.

Preliminary Game.

Preliminary to the feature at the Municipal Auditorium tonight the Kendalls will play the Fuller-Clermonts in a game that is expected to furnish the basketball fans with plenty of thrills. Both clubs are anxious about winning, so a furious cage war is promised.

Legionnaires Break Even in New Jersey

On their trip to Jersey, the Kingston Legionnaires, who play the Union City Reds tonight at the Municipal Auditorium, broke even in two games. They defeated Egg Harbor, 45-26, and then lost to the Atlantic City club of the Eastern League Tuesday night at Young's Million Dollar Pier, by a slight margin.

The score of the Atlantic City game was unavailable. At Egg Harbor the Legionnaires started fast in the early stages of the game and rolled up a lead of 25-5 in the first half. Frank Shimek, Carlisle Husta and Lennon did the heavy shooting for Kingston and Kern for Egg Harbor, as shown by the box score:

Basketball Thursday At White Eagle Hall

The regular weekly basketball program, featuring the Z. N. P. quintet, will go on at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, Thursday night, starting at 8 o'clock. There will be two other games, one at 8 o'clock between the White Eagles and another formidable quintet and another at 10 o'clock between the Holy Cross and Varsity Girls, champions of the Y. W. C. A. League.

It is the hope of the Z. N. P. team to post another victory this week. Last Thursday they defeated the Fuller-Clermont five, 42-28. The win was their second over the shirt-makers this season.

Thursday night Manager Francis "Dolly" Tondello of the Z. N. P. will have the following men in uniform: Herb Van Deuren, Don Wells, Muzzon, Ketter, Kenneth, Stump and Gember.

Notre Dame Football Captain-Elect Is Dead

New York, March 20 (AP)—Joseph Sullivan, captain-elect of the 1935 Notre Dame football team, died in New York Hospital early today.

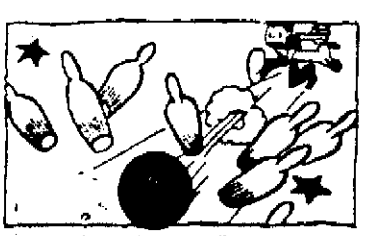

He underwent two operations last Friday for mastoiditis and serious head ailments. Numerous blood transfusions failed to aid him.

Sullivan was 22 years old, the son of Police Lieutenant Timothy Sullivan of Queens. He was brought from South Bend on Friday, March 8.

He played tackle on the Notre Dame eleven for two years and was one of the university's outstanding linemen.

The chronic mastoid condition with which he was afflicted was complicated by pneumonia and a streptococcus infection.

Wittenberg Sportsmen Spring Traps to Start

Wittenberg, March 20.—The Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club will greet official Spring with an all-comers trap shoot at the club range at Yankee-town pond, Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, when a variety of prizes will be offered to contestants.

The service of selling hot dogs and coffee to spectators and participants will be continued. This was inaugurated at the last February match to aid a needy family, the father of which is unemployed. The initial selling of refreshments was said to have been successful.

All sportsmen, whether residents of the county or elsewhere, are cordially invited. In the event of inclement weather, there will be no contest. Last minute information may be obtained by telephoning James A. Shultis, president of the club, Woodstock 28-F-6. The sports committee erected signs along the road just beyond Bearsville this week. The signs, made by Alton Boice, are large and easily read and strangers should have no difficulty finding the range.

Americans Are Ahead Browns in the Lead

New York, March 20 (AP).—Paced by Roger Hornsby's St. Louis Browns, the American League is off to a fast start in the annual "Grapefruit League" race.

American Leagueers thus far have won 13 of their 21 spring training clashes with National League opponents. The Browns, with three victories in four starts, have contributed most heavily to this advantage.

Of the six American League clubs which so far have figured in the inter-league struggle, only the New York Yankees, beaten twice by the Boston Braves in three games, have failed to get better than an even break.

The heaviest losers in the National league have been the New York Giants, beaten five times by American league rivals, but the Giants also have turned in the most National league victories, four. The St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs together have played and lost five games.

The only club so far unbeaten by any opposition—American, National or minor league—is Brooklyn. The Dodgers have won four games. The Phillies are the only club so far unable to win against anyone. They're dropped three decisions.

Seattle—Leonard Bennett, 145½, Detroit, outpointed Al Lewis, 145, Seattle, (8).

San Jose, Calif.—Frank Goosby, 170, Chicago, knocked out Nash Garrison, 174, San Jose, (1).

Larry Snyder Sees Ohio's Jesse Owens Making Him Look Like A 'Great Coach'

By FRITZ HOWELL

Columbus, O. (AP).—Coach Larry Snyder of Ohio State's track team stood on the lee side of the Buckeye football stadium as his proteges jogged over a frozen cinder track. A strong wind was blowing, and the temperature was around freezing.

A tall, lithe negro, wearing a small cap and appearing graceful despite two sweat suits, loomed by.

"There," said Snyder, "is the greatest piece of running and jumping machinery this country has ever seen. He's going to make a great coach out of me."

The athlete was Jesse Owens, going through his daily workout in the stadium because the Ohioans do not have indoor facilities. Snyder's big job is to make his proteges "take it easy," aware of the danger of strained muscles or pulled tendons, and in this respect Owens is a major cold weather problem.

Wait'll He Warm Up!

In the A. A. U. meet in Madison Square Garden, Jesse set a new world indoor broad jump record of 25 feet, 9 inches, without preliminary training. Snyder had refused to let his star performer leap into a frozen pit, and Owens confined his training to jumps up the runway in an attempt to hit the take-off board correctly.

Owens doesn't like the idea of being allowed to enter only three or four events in a meet, and half the time can be found working out with the boys in events which have been denied him.

He is a fair pole vaulter, going over 11 feet in the dead of winter with no practice. In similar fashion, he cleared the high jump bar at six feet without first trying lower levels.

"He's the greatest track man I've ever seen," Snyder insisted. "He could be a world champion at high jumping as well as broad jumping, and could be made into the greatest quarter-mile runner ever lived. He has everything."

Predicts 20-Foot Leap

But, in the outdoor season, Owens will be used only in the broad jump, yard dash.

Jesse Owens, colored boy who broke world record in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, is starting his varsity career at Ohio State under coach Larry Snyder.

None is so thing as to create Owens's stamina, and he should be at his best in each event.

How fast can he go? How far can he jump?

Mick Conroy says he will beat 24 feet in the outdoor meet, and Snyder is going to make a great coach of him, heh, heh.

Power and Pitching Will Carry Tigers Through Again—Cochrane

By ALAN GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Lakeland, Fla., March 20 (AP).—The widespread contention that the Detroit Tigers benefited from a rare collection of good breaks last season and generally were fortunate to land on top of the American League after a lapse of 25 years is not entirely accurate.

Manager Gordon Stanley (Mickey) Cochrane is willing to admit that any club "has to be lucky to be on top," but he adds:

"We forced the breaks last year, too. We came through in the tough spots because we produced the two things that count most—power and pitching."

The challenging words of the popular pilot of the Tigers belie any suspicion that the World Series fighting took anything out of the American League champions.

After The Deans

"We are aching for one more good crack at those Dean boys," says Mickey. "But we won't waste any time thinking about that until we attend strictly to the business at hand in the American League. It looks like most of the clubs will be stronger this year but the one outlier I think we have to beat is the Yankees."

The Tigers finished seven games in front of New York last year. They led both big leagues in hitting with an even 300. They came up with the year's pitching sensation in Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, who equaled the league record with 16 consecutive victories and combined with the brilliant Tommy Bridges to register 46 triumphs, only three short of the output of the Dean brothers.

Defensive Strength

The "Iron Man" infield of Hank Greenberg, Charley Gehringer, Riley Rogell and Marvin Owen played 153 games together and furnished the defensive backbone as well as the main source of batting power. The quartet drove in the amazing total of 462 runs last season.

Combined with his own backstopping, hitting and aggressive leadership, Cochrane naturally feels these factors justify him in standing pat on his lineup for 1935.

The "Goose" Getting Old

If there is any real weakness in the club's outlook it is in the outfield. The veteran Goose Goslin is still a "winning type" of player but he can hardly go another full season at top speed. Ervin (Pete) Fox, in right, has more speed than power. Jo-Jo White is not only a great centerfielder but one of the best lead-offs in the league and the nearest approach to Ty Cobb on the base-paths that the Tigers have had since the Georgia Peach departed.

Lacking first class reserves, however, Cochrane must rely on the erratic Gerald Walker and Goddard-looking rookie, Chester Morgan, who hit .342 in the Texas League last season.

Concentrating on Pitchers

To offset a possible decline in other spots, Cochrane is concentrating on his pitching corps. He expects Rowe not only the greatest right-hander in the league but a "cinch" to win 25 games. He expects big things from Elden Auker, the young submarine ball singer.

In addition to Bridges who won 22 games last year, and Fred Marberry, a great spring pitcher, the veteran Al Crowder will be available for his first full season with the club.

The best of the recruits is Clyde Hatter, southpaw from Louisville, who has discarded erratic habits and clinched a job.

The big punch again will be furnished by Greenberg and Gehringer, who hit .333 and .356 last year, respectively, and drove in 265 runs. Cochrane's understudy will be Ray Hayworth, another lusty batsman, Francis (Salty) Parker, a sweet-fielding shortstop, may land an infield utility job, along with Hank Schube, but Millard (Dixie) Howell, the Alabama football hero, is due for a year's seasoning in the Texas League before he bids for a spot on the varsity bench again.

Catholic Charities Report Issued Today

A searching analysis of the field and probable effect of government programs for economic relief marks the annual report of Miss Mary L. Gibbons, director of the Division of Families of the Catholic Charities of the New York Archdiocese, made public today.

Finding less cause for optimism as to return to normal employment than was expressed last year, Miss Gibbons asserts that "today our hopes are placed on the proposed federal program for social security," but warns that "if the vast governmental plans, programs and projects could be perfected in every detail, they could not meet all needs."

"Unemployment insurance will benefit only those already employed," she declares. "Work projects are a boon only to the employable. Old age pensions will not provide for the prematurely or the economically aged. Because of the eligibility requirements, not all the young children of widows or deserted wives can be maintained in their own homes by funds granted by the Board of Child Welfare. Many, however, will eventually benefit by such a national program for social security, and both public and private agencies must furnish relief and service for the large numbers whose needs can only be met on an individual basis."

The report asserts that even with some improvement in business conditions last year, large numbers of families exhausted their own resources and were forced to apply for relief. In December 1934, 220,416 families were receiving home relief; 103,932 families were receiving work relief; the largest number since the establishment of the bureau in 1931. A staff of over 18,000 persons is engaged in this stupendous undertaking.

Financial limitations on private welfare organizations result in depriving a tremendous number of people of needed spiritual assistance, which the public welfare agency is not equipped to offer, Miss Gibbons declares.

Catholic Charities, last year, was able to undertake the care of only a small percentage of the impoverished and distressed Catholics in the Archdiocese of New York, the report relates, and Catholic families whose major difficulty is unemployment were referred to a public welfare agency.

More than half of the families under care of Catholic Charities are native born. Furthermore 72 per cent of those assisted in Greater New York have been residents of the city for more than 10 years, the report points out, recalling that when Catholic relief agencies were first formed more than a century ago in this city, and until comparatively recent years, foreign born predominated.

Commenting the more humane administration of the immigration laws and "a definite trend on the part of the government during the last two years to consider threatened deportation of a member of a family on an individual basis," Miss Gibbons concludes nevertheless that "many of the immigration laws need further revision."

During 1934 the Catholic Protective Society had under care 434 girls and young women; 78 were assisted to a satisfactory termination of parole.

"Institutional care will not solve the problem of a great many of the aged," the report asserts, predicting, however, that the forwarding of old age pensions at the age of 65 rather than 70 and the selection of boarding-homes for those who receive the pension but have no relatives are encouraging trends toward new security and greater happiness for the aged. The 11 Catholic homes for the aged have operated to capacity all year, caring for 1,501 persons, and continue to have long waiting lists, the report asserts.

Commenting on the work of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the report announces the organization of four new conferences during the year, bringing the total conferences in the Archdiocese to 110. These assisted 7,223 families comprising 37,881 individuals in the last year with an expenditure of nearly $240,000.

Partnerships Files Income Tax Blanks

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—"All New York state concerns, listed as partnerships, are required to file income tax information blanks," Deputy Commissioner Cortland A. Wilber, director of the State Income Tax Bureau, reminded today.

More than 40,000 of these forms were mailed during the past month, but comparatively few partnerships have complied with the requirements.

"The law permits partnerships to file any time between January 1 and April 15," Mr. Wilber declared. "If the fiscal year employed in their bookkeeping varies, however, the report must be filed not later than the 15th day of the fourth month following."

It is imperative that these returns be mailed out at the earliest possible date, he said, as such action will eliminate much of the work during the rush of business in early April. As the partnership is not required to pay a tax, there is no reason for delay.

New partnerships formed during the past year should immediately apply to the Income Tax Bureau for the necessary return blanks, the state official urged.

Every such organization is required to file a return regardless of the amount of net income. Net income is computed the same as that for any individual except that deductions for charitable contributions and personal exemptions are not allowed. The report is used merely for the information it contains and members of the partnership are required to file individual return forms and pay the tax as individuals.

—so far as we know tobacco was first used about 400 years ago

—throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure..so much satisfaction

It was a matter of pride with a host in Colonial days that his guests should smoke tobacco grown on his own plantation.

Today the Governor of North Carolina says to the Governor of South Carolina—
"Have a cigarette"

TODAY people all over the world use tobacco in one form or another. They chew it, they smoke it in pipes, they smoke cigars and cigarettes, and here is what an eminent physician said about cigarettes:

"I have been something of a student of cigarettes, and it is my belief that they offer the mildest and purest form in which tobacco is used."

Yes, nowadays the cigarette is the most popular form in which tobacco is used. A good cigarette certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

Have a Chesterfield—

For one thing—they're milder.

For another thing—they taste better.
